

Any child who has musical potential deserves the opportunity to nurture this promise to its full extent.

Who We Are: The MusicLink Foundation is a non-profit organization located in Arlington, Virginia, with a twenty six-year program history of developing the talents of promising students in financial need across the country. Quite simply, our mission is to create musicians, one student at a time. We reach students who show musical potential and interest, but who easily fall into the cracks because of the lack of adequate school music programs, inability to pay for lessons, and the absence of teachers who can provide training near their homes or schools. We are able to do this by partnering with qualified teachers willing to reduce their normal rate by at least half to offer this opportunity to children who might not otherwise have it.

Our MusicLink professional teachers have provided over 564,000 hours of instruction to over 7,600 students in 50 states equivalent to $15.8 million of in-kind service to the program.

The beauty of the program is its simplicity – simply link a student with a teacher and watch potential grow. MusicLink can provide $7,000 worth of services for every $1,000 donated because of our in-kind contributions of instruction, instruments, and materials.

Our teachers and parents have witnessed the impact musical training makes on at-risk youth in our MusicLink programs. Students engaged in musical activities fill after-school time with practice, rehearsals and lessons. Students build a healthy work ethic of self-discipline, problem solving, and time management that generalizes to achievement in school. 99% of MusicLink students (in program 5 years or more) go to college, with 39% receiving college scholarships.

Our unique mission emphasizes long-term instruction that builds a bond between teacher and student that provides positive mentorship as well as musical instruction. The MusicLink Foundation continually guides student musical progress with ongoing training, provision of instruments, and performance opportunities to build self-esteem and applaud potential. This guidance and assistance is the first step toward a college scholarship or employment in the music business.

To learn more about the MusicLink program, visit our website at: www.musiclinkfoundation.org
E-mail: info@musiclinkfoundation.org Phone: 703-534-9490

Executive Director Joanne Haroutounian, Ph.D.

Founder of the MusicLink program and director of the program since 1992. International consultant in musical talent identification. Adjunct professor of piano and pedagogy at George Mason University for over 20 years. Author of numerous music texts and Kindling the Spark: Recognizing and Developing Musical Talent, Oxford University Press.

Assistant Director: Andrea Shore, M.Ed.

Board of Directors

President: Dr. Joanne Haroutounian, George Mason University, Fairfax, VA

Secretary: Andrea Shore, MusicLink Assistant Director, Annandale, VA

Treasurer: William Haroutounian, National Symphony Orchestra (retired), Washington, DC

Charles Kinney, Legal advisor - Attorney, Winston & Strawn, Washington DC

Sue Wege, Director of Coordinators - Independent music teacher, Twin Cities, MN

Virginia Gutierrez, Public Relations – Retired Director of Public Relations, Greater Miami Convention and Visitors Bureau, Miami FL

Linda Christensen, PhD - Teacher, Prince George's County Public Schools. Independent Musician and Music Technology Advisor

Nora Martin, SE Regional Coordinator – Independent music teacher, Atlanta, GA

Advisory Board

Andre Watts PA: Internationally known concert pianist

Verdine White CA: Bass guitarist with Earth Wind and Fire, director of the Verdine White Foundation

Scott McBride Smith KA: Director of the International Institute for Young Musicians, piano faculty, University of Kansas

Carolyn Callahan VA: Chair, Dept. of Educational Leadership, Foundations and Policy, Curry School of Education, University of Virginia. Leading research and expert on gifted education.

Doug Schmitt MN: Vice President of Schmitt Music Co., a major music dealer in the Midwest.

